Brewster, MA is 32 miles SE of Plymouth, MA and 64 miles SE of Boston. The town is located inside the Barnstable – Yarmouth metropolitan area.

The city of Brewster is a historic sea captains' town first settled in 1656, but officially incorporated in 1803. The city was named after Elder William Brewster, the first spiritual leader of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Colony. In the late 1600s, the country's first woolen mill and water-powered grist were founded around the Stony Brook. The old mansions and homes of the rich sea captains have presently been converted into inns and bed-and-breakfasts.
